RITA BALLIOT REMEMBRANCE

by Dan Haslam

On September 3, Rita passed away quietly at her board and care hospice in Bonita, where she had lived for the past 8 months. Her quick onset Alzheimer’s disease robbed her of the mental acuity which she was known for in serving for 35 years as Walkabout’s treasurer. She went placidly into an euphoric state, remembering people until the end, but seemingly oblivious of matters in the world around her. Most uncharacteristic for Rita, who was known for being direct -- even bombastic -- but intensely loyal to her friends, and unflinchingly devoted to Walkabout International.

Rita was raised in the L.A. area, by the distinguished Tapper family, including a brother who rose to be assistant attorney general for California. She was widowed by Bill Balliot, who she remembered fondly. Rita was always involved in finance, including serving for decades as comptroller for San Diego's Clean Team, a small business on Pacific Highway. Between her work and Walkabout, Rita found tremendous fulfillment in her life. She ruled Walkabout's financial sphere with an iron hand, insisting that trip accountings balance, bills were paid on time, and budgets met. This was not without its curiosities, however; for years she insisted that no expenditures be made in late March so that she could get an accurate picture of expenses and income as it existed at the end of March, before April brought a new fiscal year. She resisted replacing outmoded balance sheet categories on computer reports. And yet every year she got the job done for us in a Rita-sort-of-way.

Rita lived in a mobile home overlooking SR 94 near La Mesa. She was proud of owning her own 3BR home after years of renting, although she really lived in about 2 rooms -- her office which overflowed with Walkabout records and her bedroom, which she shared with a succession of beloved cats. Her car looked like a mobile Walkabout office. For a professed "walker," she drove everywhere. Years ago, when joining up with a Walkabout trip to Chicago, Rita rented a car so she wouldn't have to walk to the commuter train station with the group. She showed up on the tour about twice -- for an opening reception and a going away dinner...but she swore she had a "fabulous" tour with us. Even when she led her famous and detailed day-long bus tours and the bus burned up (once) and terminally broke down (at least once), she pronounced the trip "fabulous" and moved on.

Rita loved to shop catalogs and was perpetually buying imprinted giveaways with Walkabout logos to hand out to prospective and current members and anyone who needed another flyswatter, luggage tag, flashlight or pen of the month. When Rita retired from her "real" job, she staked a claim for a desk in the Walkabout office, plopped down and became a fixture. She tried to herd the office volunteers into servitude and then spent the day chatting with anyone who happened by in our one-room office. She haggled over the phone with vendors, credit card companies and restaurateurs over menus which she seemed to memorize with total gastronomic recall. She spent years with Weight Watchers losing the weight and putting it back on with an enthusiasm that out-Oprahed Oprah.

Rita travelled like a star with other tour companies and on her own. On a recent self-designed trip to DC, Rita and Christine Shelton booked a suite of rooms in a classy Georgetown hotel and went everywhere in cabs. She was a champagne girl on a diet soda budget. She didn't do this often, but she did it well. In 2014 Rita was the first to receive a brand new Walkabout award "Volunteer Extraordinaire" for her exemplary service to Walkabout. She deserved the award and the BBQ dinner that went with it, and it was a timely honor given her untimely end.

If Rita could have "Walkabout" tattooed on her, it's likely she would have done so. Her email address had the word in it. One of her last wishes was to donate $1000 to Walkabout, and with the grace of Theresa Hawkins, Rita's professional power of attorney, she made it happen. Each one of us has a debt to be paid to Rita -- for keeping our financial ship upright in good times and bad. For all her rough edges, she was still a diamond at heart, and I'll miss her.

Please join us for a memorial walk. Refer to the walk listing on Saturday, October 22.

FEATURED TRIPS

RESPLENDENT RAMBLES IN THE ALLURING SWISS ALPS

June 25 - July 9, 2017

Since our last Swiss trip (in 2015), a growing interest has arisen for Walkabout to return to that fabled land. Finally, Larry has succumbed to leading yet another walking tour in Switzerland. Continuing our Swiss tradition, once again we will experience an itinerary totally different from any of our previous trips there. This time we go behind-the-scenes to a new series of fascinating and far away villages that abound in absolutely stunning alpine scenery.

We will visit four remote areas of Switzerland: Arosa in the east (3 nights), Weggis in the central region (4 nights on the lake of Lucerne), Lenk in the west (3 nights) and world renowned Zermatt -- home of the majestic Matterhorn -- in the south (4 nights).

Our adventures bring us to three hotels nestled in distant valleys surrounded by alluring alpine vistas and reached only by our taking trains to their final, end-of-the-line destinations. One lakeside hotel, not accessible by train, entreats us to arrive by boat, where nearby we will soar high atop a favorite alp of celebrated rambler, Mark Twain.

Our trip includes 15 days/ 14 nights of 3- and 4-star accommodations, 14 breakfasts, 14 dinners, a 15-day Swiss Travel Pass (for unlimited train, bus and boat transport), admissions to countless museums and cultural events, all-the-chocolate-you-can-eat, a host of daily walks to savor breath-taking alpine beauty, comprehensive services of Walkabout leader, Larry (who has led dozens of walking tours of Switzerland). HYANNIS FEDERATED CHURCH AND WALKABOUT SHARE TRIP

On the hottest day of the summer, five church members from Hyannis Federated Church set off for a Walkabout Cape Cod tour of the whaling city of New Bedford, MA. Because of the 90-plus degree heat and humidity, serious walking wasn’t an option, but touring around in an air conditioned minivan proved the most comfortable option.

Our group left HFC first thing in the morning and drove along historic Route 6A, the “King’s Highway,” so named because it was the colonial road along Cape Cod’s northern shore long before this was the United States. Tour leader Dan Haslam pointed out some significant sites in Barnstable; for example the Old Colonial Courthouse, where in 1773 1500 locals barred the crown-appointed judges from taking their judicial seats in the first-ever act of rebellion in the colonies. The site was later used as a town mustering point for colonial solders to march to join in the war for independence.

In West Barnstable, our group visited a community farm and the oldest Congregational church in the US, where the congregation started in 1616 in London, after the founder was released from the "clink," then Clink Prison. We made a coffee stop outside Sandwich for a quick gander at the Riverside School thrift shop, and then another stop in historic Sandwich to visit St. John’s new thrift shop. We kept to the old roads after passing over the Sagamore Bridge, which connects the Cape to the mainland, and enjoyed the changes to Route 6--- the road before the highways. We stopped for a satisfying lunch in Fair Haven before crossing the river into New Bedford, the whaling capital of the world.

In New Bedford, we visited the historic sites by car including the home in which Frederick Douglass, former slave and abolitionist, lived. Many of the large New Bedford mansions built from whaling profits are now offices, and our group drove through the city park and enjoyed its architecture. Tour day was selected because of a monthly evening festival called “Aha!” in which downtown streets turn into concert venues, farmers markets and dance scenes. Our day was the centennial celebration of the National Park Service, which operates a large visitor center and several blocks of cobbled street neighborhoods. We took an hour-long walking tour which included whaling history, abolitionist stories, and of course, the red light district (always a hit!). The NPS gave out bubble making equipment, cupcakes, drinks and had a great sea shanty chorus concert in the afternoon heat.

Our group visited an oyster museum and the famous Whaling Museum's art galleries, and we had a picnic supper on the museum’s outdoor plaza before heading back to Hyannis and home. Those on the trip were Betsy Hendricks, Carol Beckloff, Georgie Childs, Pam Hammond and Dan Haslam. The trip was a joint venture between Hyannis Federated Church and Walkabout International Cape Cod.
WALKABOUT TAKES SUMMER CAMP IN MAINE TO NEW LEVELS

Ten Walkabouters enjoyed a week at the Poland Spring Resort in late August in perfect weather. Met by trip leader Dan Haslam at Boston's Logan Airport, our group spread out among two of the five inns that comprise the resort. Most stayed at the Victorian Presidential Inn, a former lodging for rich tourists' servants. This manse had creaky floors, large rooms and was a five-minute walk to the Maine Inn, where meals were enjoyed.

Others stayed at the Lodge, a familiar hostelry where Walkabout has stayed on its three previous visits. The resort sits on 800 acres and includes an 18-hole golf course, huge unheated pool, numerous restaurants and 8 miles of wooded trails, including one that takes in The Source, where the famous water burbles out. Poland Spring water is famous in the eastern US. The resort offered unique evening entertainment, which started with happy hour instrumentalists, the $2.50 drink of the day and 99-cent beers. The rocking chairs on the porch were an excellent way to pass the time "stress free," which is a motto of the resort. Early bird walks were scarcely attended as most wanted to stock up on breakfast goodies each day.

In the evening there were movies in the Presidential's basement, concerts in the dining room-turned night club, or musicals in the adjacent chapel. Our group took all of this in, plus some time at the newish state-run casino, 7 miles up the highway. Lobsters are pervasive in Maine, and some inhaled lobster rolls (even McDonald's offers them!). The resort offered an optional lobster dinner in addition to its buffet breakfasts and dinners of home cooked goodies. Butter sauce rolled off of us like water.

During the day, our group took in several day trips -- including a day at Sabbathday Lake, the last Shaker community in the world. Our guide invited us back for Sunday "meeting," and that was a highlight for most on our trip, and a chance to meet the Shakers. We also visited Bates and Bowdoin colleges and their museums, took a walk along the Androscoggin River adjoining Lewiston and Auburn, ME, followed by lunch at the original "red hots" diner, a day trip to the shops at Freeport, and sightseeing around Sebago Lake, where Naida delighted us by doing handstands during her solo swim. We toured the Maine Wild Animal Park for an encounter with a moose. En route back to the heavy Boston traffic we took in Kennebunkport and looked for the Bush family.

This was no summer camp -- it was much better! Those travelling included Bob Buehler and his wife Virginia, Charlotte Sedgwick and Beverly Stebbins, Judith Anderson, Jim "got the brick" Miller, Naida Hindert, Ginger Thaler, and Jennifer Nickles.

Walkabouters stop in the middle of nowhere in Maine, but in the center of everything!

ANNUAL MEETING/AUCTION/PICNIC
SATURDAY, OCTOBER 29
11 AM TO 2 PM

Mark your calendars now for Walkabout International’s annual potluck picnic and auction to be held at East Mission Bay Park (same location as last year).

We need each person to bring three things:
1. Food to share for the potluck (usually 40+ attendees)
2. Contributions/donations for the auction
3. Your checkbook or cash to pay for someone else’s donated treasure at the auction

The park is located on East Mission Bay Drive just west of the I-5, use Exit #22 Clairemont Drive. We will be in the Playa II cover shelter (gazebo), south of the former visitors center, north of the Hilton Hotel. Look for our bright blue banners & signs. There is plenty of free parking in nearby lots. Walkabout will provide beverages, ice, cutlery, napkins, cups, and plates. You can bring your family, friends and neighbors: all are welcome (just be sure to bring plenty food to share).

We will start off with a casual to moderate walk along the bay before lunch. There will be a short meeting about Walkabout’s operations presented by our President, Bob Buehler before the auction. As usual our cheerful auctioneer, Dan Haslam will entertain us with his fast talking as he tries his best to move all those treasures to new homes. Auction favorites include plants, homemade baked goods, gift certificates (restaurants, hair salons, movie tickets, etc.) books, gifts you want to “re-gift”. Prefer things that can be consumed rather than stored on a shelf. Things to avoid donating to the auction: artwork, clothing, electronics (unless in excellent working condition), anything not in good condition.

Come on down for an entertaining fun afternoon for good food and great company!

Call the office (619) 231-7463 to sign up on the potluck interest list with your name, how many in your party and food contribution. Main dishes preferred.
